

Female Engineering Experiences

The College of Engineering administration and faculty have expressed an interest in the experiences of women in the College. They feel unaware of the extent to which women are discriminated against or singled out and would like to better understand these issues. In response to the College's concerns, we are surveying our members' experiences. Please provide as much information as you are comfortable sharing, but refrain from mentioning specific names. This survey is completely anonymous.

1. Have you ever felt you were treated differently in class because you are a woman?
Often / Sometimes / Rarely / Never
2. If so, was this an isolated instance, or is it a continuing problem? Please elaborate.
3. Have you ever been treated differently by a professor?
4. Have you ever been treated differently in lab or discussion?
5. Have you ever been treated differently in office hours?
6. Have you ever been treated differently in study groups? Have you had access to them?
7. Have you ever felt your work has been graded differently?
8. Have you ever been treated differently by male peers?
9. Have you ever experienced inappropriate behavior by professors or TAs? This includes sexist comments, etc.
10. Thank you for your help! Please provide us with your major and year in school if you feel comfortable giving us that information for demographic purposes. We also welcome any questions, comments, or concerns.
